Jameel Mohammed founded KHIRY, an Afrofuturist Luxury Brand in 2016. Jameel's design career began after a necklace he created as a University of Pennsylvania student caught the eye of the Fashion Director of Barneys New York. He accepted an internship at the company and learned merchandising and retail buying before founding his brand. KHIRY employs the conventions of luxury fashion to make pointed statements about the value of black life and culture. KHIRY's polished and sculptural jewelry is crafted to embody the strength, beauty, power, and romance of the African Diaspora. Jameel lives and designs in Brooklyn, NY.
